

Study Guide

As my hero and mentor Annabelle Adams will tell you, every great detective learns from her mistakes. And so, at the end of every case, I, the magnificent Moxie McCoy, like to look back and see what I did right and what I maybe could have done better. If you would be willing to help me think through these questions, I would surely appreciate it.

1. What mistakes did I make throughout the day? What should I do to keep from making them again?
2. What can I do to become an even better detective moving forward? (Other than read Annabelle Adams over and over and over.)
3. What made Principal Jones decide to give Milton the Eddie Award? Do you think it was the right decision?
4. If I really want to win the Eddie Award next term, what can I do to improve my chances?
5. What made Tracy Dublinger want to steal Eddie? I still can't quite figure it out. Can you? Should she get in trouble for what she did?
6. Is Emily Estevez a good best friend candidate for me? What makes someone a good friend?
7. I think I was a good big sister today, but I wonder if there is still some room for improvement. What could I do to be an even better sister to Milton?
8. My best friend Emily Estevez asks herself "Why is January?" whenever her brain gets stuck. What do you do when you're trying to solve a tricky problem?

For more fun stuff, check out www.realmccoysbook.com

The Real McCoys (book 1)

Matthew Swanson and Robbi Behr

ISBN: 978-1-250-09852-8

Imprint , A part of Macmillan Children's Publishing Group
On sale: November 7, 2017